

MEET THE LOCALS

HOW MANY GULLS CAN YOU SPOT?

There are some AMAZING species of Gull in Dorset...can you ID some of these?

Although there seems like loads of Gulls around, they are actually globally threatened and really need our protection

1 Great Black Backed Gull
The largest Gull in the world!!!

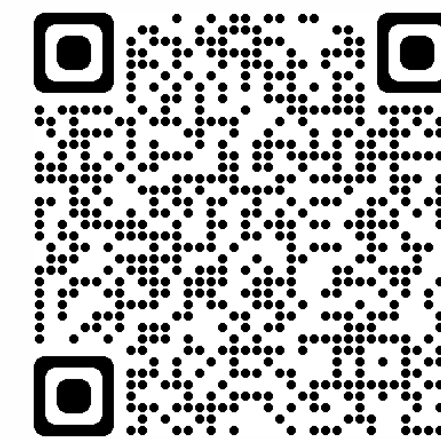

2 Black Headed Gull

3 Yellow Legged Gull

4 Mediterranean Gull
Wears a full black hood

5 Herring Gull
These are the most common ones to swoop in for some chips but also on the RSPB RED list so need our protection.

6 Common Tern
Not a Gull but gets mistaken for one. They are nicknamed Sea Swallows because they do amazing aerial dives!

DID YOU KNOW? Recent discoveries have shown that Birds evolved from dinosaurs called Therapods, and that even T-Rex had feathers!!!

Things to LOOK for when Identifying Gulls:

- Beak Colour
- Colour of Legs
- Size
- Feather patterns

BARI SUPPORTS THE 'DON'T FEED THE LOCALS' CALLS TO ACTION
PLEASE BIN YOUR UNWANTED FOOD
IF BINS ARE FULL, PLEASE TAKE YOUR RUBBISH HOME

When gulls find unattended food and overflowing bins they rip apart any packaging and this can get littered by being blown around. The gulls may also consume or get tangled in the packaging which is harmful to them.

Help keep our feathered friends safe and healthy!
